Six thousand or more persons are affected by the closing of the local industrial plants under the fuel con-gerving order, and this does not inelude the several large peanut factories which are exempted on the ground that they are food producers. But all take the situation philosophically and are not disposed to complain, rather to obey the order logically. Among those thrown out of employment are hundreds of women and girls, who work in cigarette and cigar factories, but it is said by a large manufacturer, that
